"If I were allowed only one weekly, it would be the TLS"
Tom Stoppard

As you might expect, that quote made us very proud...

For Tom - as for most of our readers - the Times Literary Supplement is, quite simply, an indispensable weekly journal.

It is for readers and thinkers all over the world. Individuals who have an insatiable thirst for high quality cultural debate. And people searching for those very special books that give you so much - and tend to stay with you for ever.

If this describes you, then I think you're going to like the rest of this letter.

Save a massive 71% on the cover price, with 12 issues for only £12

There has never been a better time to try the TLS, or to treat a friend or loved one to a gift subscription. We have a superb trial offer of the world's most lively literary review, for only £12 for 12 issues (3 months), via direct debit. This is an incredible saving of 71% on the cover price.

Or, if you prefer, you could pay just £20 for 12 issues, via cheque or credit card, which is still a fabulous saving of £22 off the cover price.

As a subscriber, you will enjoy the 'Complete Works' package, with each weekly magazine delivered direct to your home or office. And that's not all: you will also receive the digital edition on your iPad, Smartphone, Kindle Fire or Android device, giving you the many benefits of the TLS, wherever you may be.

Unrivalled coverage of the latest and most important publications, *plus current theatre, opera, exhibitions and films

For over 100 years, the TLS has been acknowledged worldwide as an indispensable read. It has always had a world-class team of contributors - from T.S. Eliot and Virginia Woolf to Clive James and Ali Smith.

Our approach is global and our reputation supreme. As Le Monde put it recently, we have "no rivals". Noam Chomsky, also spoke of the TLS in glowing terms, calling it "provocative, stimulating, irritating, informative."

Certainly, if you are an individual who enjoys mental stimulation of the highest
